

Sol - The Ultimate Band Mascot

He was born in Iceland, his mother is Dutch, his father's Chinese, he now lives in Spain and has a deep interest in dressing like a terracotta warrior.

And for some reason his religion is Russian Orthodox.

Yes indeed. He is addicted to pedicures.

He speaks 14 languages, including Spanish, Korean and Ancient Micropolynesian. He has a surprisingly large collection of Rick Astley albums, most likely so he can contain them and make sure that nobody listens to them

And he is madly in love with Marie Curie for some reason.

He has built a strange resurrection device in his spare room.

But he spends so much money on Rick Astley stuff that he can't pay the rent and gets evicted a lot. So he can't work on his resurrection machine.

He has been working also on a machine which forges cash, but he hasn't quite got it right yet. And he has a large unicycle collection.

He owns 1/4 of the world's collectible windowsills. And he works as a waitress in a cocktail bar.

His favourite music is Tuvan throat singing. He keeps sending letters to Rick Astley asking him to do a Tuvan throat singing album.

He has run up a bill of €1295.12 so far this year in stamps to Rick Astley.

He's also The Fighting Shrikes' roadie, for some reason. And he has a fear of buttons.

His birthday is the 8th January 1991. When he was young he was involved in a horrific accident involving trees. The exact causes are unknown. In this accident he lost his three favourite toes.

He lists his heroes as Thom Yorke, Win Butler, Nelson Mandela and his local shopkeeper. And he dreams of Californication.

He's very sensitive about the use of his surname, so he keeps it to himself. If he has a middle name at all, it's probably Ebanazer.